Five experts travel the globe for the Art Gallery of Hamilton Collectors Series
The Art of the Chase: Collecting 'Hot Spots'

The Art of the Chase, Art Gallery of Hamilton's exclusive series on art collecting, returns with inside information on how to find the most reputable sources at home and abroad. Over the course of four evenings this October, experts who travel the globe in search of that special art work turn an eye to the major art centres of Toronto, New York, Vancouver, Los Angeles, and the 'must-experience' international art fairs. Dates, speakers and topics are as follows:

Wednesday, October 5 at 7:30 pm:

Jane Corkin of Toronto's Corkin-Shopland Gallery will deliver a keynote address focusing on major international art collecting centres.

Thursday, October 20 at 7:30 pm:

Independent Curator Helga Pakasaar and Rebecca Morse, Associate Curator for the Los Angeles Museum of Contemporary Art, will discuss the art centres of Vancouver and Los Angeles.

Thursday, October 27 at 7:30 pm:

Gregory Burke, Director of the Power Plant Contemporary Art Gallery in Toronto discusses international acquisitions.

Wednesday, November 2 at 7:30 pm:

Catherine Osborne, Managing Editor of The Walrus discusses Toronto and New York as collecting centres.

Held in the AGH's elegant Joey and Toby Tanenbaum Pavilion, each evening features a complimentary Wine Tasting profiling select Niagara region VQA wines at 6:30 pm. Guest speakers begin their presentation at 7:30 pm with conversation and coffee among participants to follow.

Cost of this AGH Collectors series is $90.00 for AGH Members and Returning Subscribers and $100.00 for Non-Members. For an additional $50.00 per person per evening, participants may enjoy an elegant dinner catered by 1010 Bistro, beginning at 7:00 pm.
